Booklist

Books are a special way to stay connected with your child. Choose books that are not too long, are age appropriate, and that you enjoy. Have fun yourself: Your enthusiasm will be contagious and the children will learn that it can be fun to read because you are their reading role model. Interact and involve your child in the story. Read with rather than to your child and remember that if you like the book you are reading, your child will like it too!

“Parents play roles of inestimable importance in laying the foundation for learning to read. A parent is a child’s first tutor in unraveling the fascinating puzzle of written language. A parent is a child’s one enduring source of faith that somehow, sooner or later, he or she will become a good reader.”

–Richard C. Anderson
